April 2009

Tip of the Month Conflicter Virus

As you know the last couple of weeks the Conflicter virus received a lot of publicity from the media....

April 1st came and gone without any Conflicter disasters. In my opinion it was a marketing play for all major anti virus companies, so that people would buy their software.

If your computers were updated with MS updates, your computers were safe from these types of exploits. Please make sure your computers updates are current.

If you would like us to maintain your computer updates we offer preventative maintenance agreements, which are charged monthly. Our monthly maintenance agreement consist of:

1. Remotely logging in to your PC on a weekly basis.
2. Checking that all updates are installed and are current.
3. Making sure your backups ran successfully.
4. Look for error messages in Event Viewer.

Who We Are

Scallycomputechs, was established by Norman Scally in 2001.

Norman has directed his talents to the small business market, and has helped many SOHO (small office home office) users set up their computers and home networks. As a part of a team of IT professionals, he has completed two major enterprise computer migration projects, with Nortel Networks and Kaiser Hospitals. Norman has kept a long-term relationship with his clients, providing them with trusted advice and recommendations, as well as quality service and support. Norman also sends a periodical newsletter about computer maintenance, security, and current issues.

Norman holds the following certifications:

Cisco Certified Network Associate (CCNA)
Microsoft Small Business Specialist
Microsoft Certified Desktop Support Technician (MCDST)
Microsoft Certified Professional (MCP) on Windows 2000, and NT 4 Server
